

The Department of Health and Human Services erred when it claimed that seniors would not face premium increases for their Medicare Part D coverage in 2007. A new analysis released by Rep. Waxman shows that for the average senior, premiums will increase by over 10%, with some seniors enrolled in the lowest-priced plans facing even larger increases. Documents and Links

- Revised Letter to Sec. Leavitt
- Rep. Waxman's Statement
- Rep. Waxman's Response to Administrator McClellan's Statement